

I feel very fortunate that the State of NJ has taken the strict stand that they have. It is an invasion of privacy for anyone to have the ability to continuously call you in the privacy of your home. My husband and I have also put his mother on this list. The elderly were being taken advantage of by these calls. They don't always understand that someone is selling something. By some of the approaches used they were intimidated or truly did not understand what was being asked. It has been wonderful having my freedom back and not having to worry about my mother in law. I hope that this law stands. There are many other ways of advertising use them.
